1. Enclosed herewith is the thermofax reproduction of the Eichmann memoirs photostat which is in [] possession.
2. We sympathize with the person who will read the attachment. We regret the quality of the reproduction but assure you that it was not the thermofax process which was at fault but the photostat from which we had to copy. Some pages are obviously illegible and they were also illegible on the photostat.
3. As to the handwriting I can read it if I have to but it is very slow going. [] tells me that a person used to reading German manuscript should have no trouble.
4. We have made no attempt to compare the attached manuscript with the material published in LIFE nor have we attempted any other analysis.
5. [] made a great point about the sensitivity of this material from the point of view of his [] relationship with [] There are obviously several copies of the memoirs in existence and there is no reason why KUBARK should not have obtained a copy somewhere. But under no circumstances should it be revealed that we obtained a copy in Hamburg.
